Veto 2nd SIU board

After conferring with opponents and advocates of legislation to create a second Southern Illinois University board, Governor Daniel Walker on Friday vetoed the bill.

As a result of his action, a single Board of Trustees will continue to govern both the Carbondale and Edwardsville universities.

The legislation had been proposed as a way to correct the present board's alleged lack of responsiveness to needs of SIUE, the first university to be established in the Illinois sector of the St. Louis metropolitan area. The local campus was opened to students ten years ago.

The SIU board will hold a regular monthly meeting at 11 a.m. Thursday at SIUE.

Among the issues expected to be discussed are:

Armed man gets $1,500 at station

A reddish-brown wig, believed worn by an armed man who robbed the Moto Service Station, East 23rd Street and Nameoki Road, of $1,500 about 10 p.m. Saturday, was recovered by police a short time later in the vicinity of Kirkpatrick Homes.

Service station attendant David Kingsley said a man came into the gasoline station, reported his car had broken down and said he would wait for a friend to pick him up. The man stayed about 25 minutes and at 10 p.m. Kingsley closed the station, turning out the exterior lights.

At that point, the man pulled out a weapon, which appeared to be a .38-caliber pistol, pointed the gun at the attendant and said, "Give me all the money you have." He also demanded the "bills which are kept" in another location.

The holdup man refused to take the change from the cash register.

Kingsley was ordered into the station restroom and told to remain inside when the robber noticed the door was ajar.

Described as about 25 years old, six feet tall and weighing 180 pounds, the holdup man was wearing an army green-khaki jacket and blue jeans. He needed a shave, the victim said. Initially, the station operator estimated about $500 was taken in the holdup. A later report placed the loss at $1,500.

Abducted, assaulted

A 20-year-old married Granite City woman was abducted by three men and raped by two of her abductors in an occurrence reported to Granite City police and the Madison County sheriff's office at 9:50 p.m. Friday.

The victim was returning home on foot from a store when she was asked street directions by the men. They were seated in an auto near 20th Street and Grand Avenue.

When she was unable to answer the inquiry, she was told to get into the back seat of the car "or there will be trouble."

One man displayed a small-caliber automatic weapon in his hand.

She entered the auto and was driven along Illinois Route Three and across the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge, where the driver made a right turn and then drove south onto a side road and parked.

The young woman was raped by two of the three men and then was brought back to the vicinity of 20th Street and State Street.

Her husband was at home when she reached the residence, and the couple reported the attack to authorities.

The abductors' vehicle was a 1975 maroon cap-with a black vinyl top and red interior.

The driver was described as about 22 years old, between five feet, 10 inches and five feet 11 inches tall, with a shag haircut, wearing a multi-colored Indian headband, faded olive drab fatigues and a white tee shirt.

The man who displayed the pistol was about 35 years old, about five feet, seven inches tall and heavy set, with dark curly hair and dark eyes.

The third man was in his mid-30s and wore glasses.

Police officers are continuing to investigate the case.

Russians' life drab

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Obviously unimpressed by the Soviet Union, which he visited in late August, G. H. Sternberg told members of the Granite City Optimist Club Thursday noon. "Usually you can get the feel of a country and the people by walking through the streets. In Russia, everyone looks alike and no one looks happy. It is just like you imagine it to be."

Addressing the men's service club at its weekly luncheon meeting at the YMCA, Sternberg said, "Coming into Leningrad by plane, the city looks like any big city, but once you hit the ground you can actually feel the difference."

"Everything looks gray. Russia is a terribly big country, full of terrible people, living a terrible life under a terrible plan."

Sternberg related his experience of taking his wife, Ruth, to a Russian hospital for treatment of an ankle injury which she suffered two days earlier during an overnight stop in Helsinki, Finland.

Flees, captured

The arrest of a 17-year-old youth who was running from Granite City High School South—chased by a school administrator and police officer at 10:40 p.m. Saturday—triggered the subsequent arrest of five bystanders.

Among the latter five were two 15-year-olds, two 16-year-olds and a 17-year-old. Four were charged with disorderly conduct and one also was booked for intoxication.

The original youth taken into custody was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

A police officer on duty at a South High dance noticed a youth pushing through a crowd of people pursued by an assistant principal, who asked

Cannabis arrests

Two Granite City youths were arrested on charges of unlawful possession of cannabis in the parking area at Granite City High School South while a dance was in progress at the school at 9:45 p.m. Saturday.

Booked at police headquarters for unlawful possession of cannabis (over 30 grams) were Gregory A. Rains, 18, of 138 Arlington Drive, and Handy V. Crider, 18, of 2012 Grand Ave.

Police were asked by school authorities to "check out" a group of young people who were seated on a loading dock at the northeast corner of the

G. H. STERNBERG

Contract on 151 probable

Hoefken Brothers, Inc., Ballsville, was low bidder at $4,394,215 on Friday for construction of the Great River Road (Federal Aid Route 151) from Granite City south to Broadway in Venice.

The bid, the lowest in four received, is less than the state estimate for the cost of constructing the 1.81-mile distance. Because it is below the advance projection of the probable cost, the bid is regarded as certain to be accepted by the Illinois Department of Transportation.

The four-lane, divided highway currently terminates at Niedringhaus Avenue near the traffic entrance to the Granite City Army Installation.

Hoefken holds a $2,593,189 contract for construction of a Route 151 structure over Chicago Avenue and the Army bases' railroad yard. The overpass is partly completed.

R. Ron Electrical Co., Granite City, submitted the low bid of $109,300—three per cent over the state estimate—to install traffic lights at three corners of Missouri Avenue in East St. Louis and to modernize traffic signs at six other intersections of that street.

The state usually considers bids of up to 105 per cent of its estimate as being in the awardable range.

Dron bid $109,372, or 5.3 per cent over the estimate, to modernize other traffic lights in East St. Louis.

Dedicate 203 Friday

A ribbon-cutting and dedication ceremony to mark completion of the Route 203 highway improvement will be held at 1 p.m. Friday.

Plans for the ceremony were announced by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler who said invitations to the event have been sent to area legislators, city and school officials and officials of the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Monroe Brewer, city engineer who has been coordinating plans for the dedication program, said completion of the highway project will coincide with the time of the ceremony.

Highway workers this week will continue with cleanup work and completion of miscellaneous asphalt work and expect to finish the job about noon on Friday, Brewer said.

Route 203 now will provide four-lane traffic from Pontoon Road to I-270 at Mitchell, replacing an old two-lane highway of narrow, cracked pavement. The roadway has been placed in operation as various sections were completed.

Its completion marks nearly three years of work in which progress was delayed on several occasions.

A contract in the amount of $3,796,137 was awarded to the Calhoun Construction Co. of Springfield in October 1972. A long delay attributed in part to continued bad weather occurred during 1973, resulting in special conferences between the contractor, state legislators and highway department representatives.

As a result of those meetings, work was resumed in 1973 and has continued since with exception of intermittent delays caused by inclement weather.

Guests invited to the dedication have been asked to meet at the Illinois Department of Transportation field trailer at Route 203 and Benning Avenue prior to 1 p.m.

GC man, 35, slain; beaten and stabbed

The body of Ted Meyer, 35, of 2013 E. 20th St., was found at about 2 a.m. Saturday in a field between a levee and the 1200 block of North 71st Street in Canteen Township, where authorities believe he was severely beaten and possibly stabbed.

An acquaintance who was with Mr. Meyer said the two men went to a junk yard in Canteen Township to look at some auto parts and they were assaulted by three men.

The acquaintance, a 25-year-old East St. Louis man, was held during the weekend by St. Clair County sheriff's deputies for questioning but has been released.

Deputies said Mr. Meyer's body appeared to have been severely beaten, possibly with a bludgeon, and head injuries were apparent. At least one wound, it appeared, may have been inflicted with a knife, they said.

Mr. Meyer was pronounced dead by St. Clair County Coroner C. C. Kane at the location where he was found. An autopsy was conducted and an inquest is to be held into the cause of death.

Deputies said Mr. Meyer's auto was located on Minnesota Avenue, several blocks from where his body was found.

There were signs of a struggle near the body, but none near the car.

Among Mr. Meyer's survivors are his wife, Carol House, Meyer, and five daughters, including Susan and Donna O'Brien, both of Granite City, and three sons.

Funeral services are to be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Phillip Catholic Church, East St. Louis.

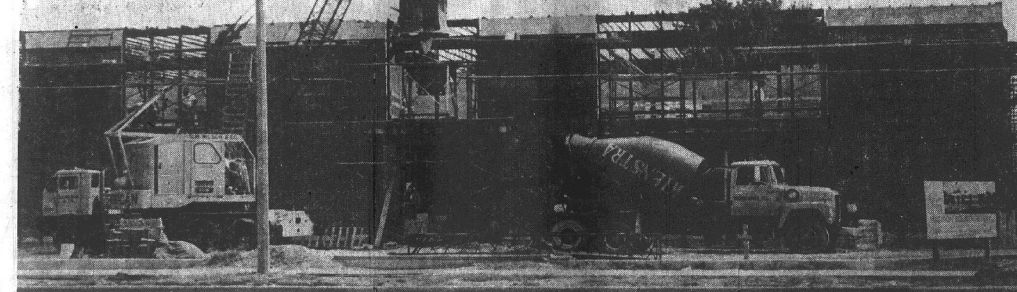

Visitation is taking place at an East St. Louis funeral home.

keep children and pets away from the ditch, since a stronger than normal mixture is being used in the spray to combat disease-carrying mosquitoes. Weeds in the ditch have been cut three times this summer and a fourth mowing is scheduled, the officials said.

Russians

to be in a city of 4,300,000 people, who really don't like Americans and who speak no English," Sternberg said.

"First a desk clerk wrote a message in Russian, which I couldn't read, to give a cab driver who couldn't speak English, directing him to take us to a hospital. He drove us to a shabby building, about a block-long, in which ever so often there was hole in the wall. He parked outside one opening and motioned us to go inside."

Sternberg recounted the difficulty of asking the taxi driver to wait and how a series of pointed fingers and hand signs eventually led them to an area where Mrs. Sternberg was treated.

"A lady doctor, dressed in what appeared to be a butcher's uniform, came out and took Ruth inside a room. By this time we thought the ankle may have been broken, but no one could speak English to answer any questions," he said.

Finally, Sternberg snapped a footpick in two, showing it to the physician who laughed and shook her head, indicating the injury was not that severe.

"They treated her very carefully and there was no charge for the treatment," he added.

Their language problems decreased the next day when the couple had the services of a car, driver and tour guide for a three-hour period, a practice that was continued on the following days also.

One of the guides provided by Intourist, the Soviet Union's official tourist agency, was a young college senior majoring in French and Spanish who is planning to become a teacher.

"She spoke textbook English," the traveler said. Her father is an architect and her mother an engineer in construction, I believe."

Sternberg, an avid collector of Lincoln memorabilia and a keen researcher into that period of history, commented, "It hurt pretty bad when she said she had never heard of Lincoln."

"The people over there have no idea what is going on in the world, only what their government wants them to know. I believe they think it's better than what they used to have and what can they do about it (living conditions) anyway."

I saw no kids that I can remember and no family groups while in Russia. It is enough to scare you to death. Anything of beauty they showed us was of Christian or Czarist origin... they had nothing modern of beauty to show."

Sternberg said Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, was a pretty town and described visiting a department store... "not really one store but a lot of loosely integrated little shops under a single roof. We didn't see anything we wanted to take away with us."

One incident which visibly disturbed Sternberg involved the attitude of a "little old lady who approached Ruthie and I as we were leaving Russia. She asked if we were going to the United States by way of Warsaw and told us she was scared to death and could she tag along with us."

"This woman had spent 50 years in Russia and had lived the last 20 years in the United States. She was a graduate of the University of Leningrad and had retired from her job with a chemical company in the U. S. and had returned to Russia to visit her brother and other family members."

"It was a terrible thing to see a fine, educated person reduced to such fright at the sight of a uniform, even after 20 years of living in the United States," Sternberg said.

"She was petrified of anyone in uniform and I had to physically support her through passport control where two soldiers were standing with sidearms."

"She appeared to be a devout religious woman and we talked about her brother and religion. She said in the city there were now two million people, eight churches and there used to be 45,000 people and more than 400 churches."

"It's another world over there. If they are not totally controlled, they are totally coerced," the speaker said.

Sternberg also related his experiences in Copenhagen, Denmark, where he attended the World Scout Conference, a gathering of scouting representatives from 109 nations involved in the movement.

He said the conference was to devise new programs and improve and update current programs in all nations across the free world.

Sternberg took part in seminars concerning management of scouting associations and community development. Conferees from 25 nations expressed themselves on wide-ranging subjects in the

Guns valued at $690 taken in house burglary

A burglar removed a window in a front bedroom and stole several weapons and other items at the home of Ernest Winnie, 2821 Roosevelt Ave., it was reported at 12:55 a.m. Sunday.

A rifle scope and an eight-track deck were recovered in the front yard.

Missing are a diamond ring, valued at $210; 12 gauge shotgun, $160; radio, $25; color pack camera, $25; portable television, $50; tape recorder, radio and speaker, $80; an assorted quantity of meat, $30.

Also, a .22 mag rifle and scope, $60; three cartons of automatic rifle, $80; and 12 boxes of ammunition, $39.

R. E. NIEDRINGHAUS SUCCEEDS AT AGE 75

Raymond E. Niedringhaus, 75, Bellefontaine Neighbors, a descendant of the founders of Granite City Steel, died Friday at Christian Hospital Northwest. He was board chairman of the Broadway Marine and Construction Supply Co., St. Louis, having started the business 35 years ago.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at a Hall's Ferry Road mortuary, with burial at Memorial Park Cemetery.

community development seminar.

"It can be a frustrating and difficult job to 'meld' these various cultures and backgrounds into an ongoing program suitable for all," he pointed out.

Sternberg illustrated his remarks with a series of colored slides, many taken during a visit to the Lake Lucerne region of Switzerland.

Bob Thomas mortuary open on limited basis

Redecorating at the new Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuary, Pontoon Road and Franklin Avenue, has been completed, but the funeral home is not yet ready to officially open, Robert Thomas, operator, told the Press-Record Friday.

Pews for the funeral home's chapel, which have been ordered for some time, have not yet arrived. Thomas described the funeral home as "operable, but not open."

One funeral was held in the chapel today, using folding chairs, Thomas explained. He said it was by request of the family that the funeral home was used before the pews arrived.

The funeral was for William L. Atwood, 49, of 2700 Angela Drive, who died Thursday at home.

Thomas said he will make a public announcement as soon as the funeral home is fully open. The former Maryland Bi-Rite Market building was remodeled inside with a Mediterranean decor. It features a large chapel with a seating capacity for 120 persons and is designed to be suitable for any denomination.

The building also contains three large state rooms and a coffee lounge.

A paved parking lot will allow ample parking space for funerals and viewings.

The exterior was decorated in a Spanish style. The building is owned by Thomas in partnership with Dan, David and Don Partney Jr.

Thomas said the funeral home is named for his late father, Robert Thomas, who died in May of 1974. He was in the mortuary profession 35 years in Granite City until his death.

The Thomas firm also operates a 24-hour per day ambulance service with two ambulances which are available by calling 931-2121.

Arrest woman in daughter's alleged theft

"If there is a clear indication that the parent knew what the child was doing and didn't stop" shoplifting by a juvenile, "the parent is going to be charged,"

Conrad "Peter" Bantz of the Madison County Sheriff's staff said Thursday.

The policy was announced after the arrest last week of a 34-year-old East St. Louis woman. She and her 15-year-old daughter were stopped by security personnel of a store on Collinsville Road for allegedly taking cosmetics and underwear worth $18.

The girl was referred to juvenile authorities; the woman was arrested for suspected theft and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Charge youth, several escape

Leonard Cole, 18, of the 2000 block of Illinois Avenue, was charged Thursday with Wednesday's burglary at The Original Granite City Flea Market, 3675 Nameoki Road.

Police received an alarm from the flea market at 11:40 p.m. Wednesday and reported, upon arrival, seeing several youths inside the store.

One officer called for assistance and then entered the building, catching one youth near the snack bar. The other youths ran out another door and escaped.

Police searched the building and noticed that about 21 drop curtains, which close off individual booths operated by separate businessmen, had been slashed with a knife to allow entry to the booths.

Three boxes full of clothing, costume jewelry, watches, rings and other items were found in the trunk of a car allegedly driven by Cole and parked near the flea market.

Development and Maryville Road on agenda for county

Tomorrow's 9:30 a.m. Madison County Board agenda includes a resolution authorizing the county to enter into contracts with Venice, Glen Carbon, South Roxana and Hartford to undertake projects to implement the 1975 community development program.

Also to be considered is a resolution authorizing the board chairman to contract with Environmental Triple S Co., St. Louis, for Madison County to perform water testing in accordance with provisions of a regional planning commission grant.

The board is to act on an agreement between the county and Godfrey Township for law enforcement services.

The Right-of-Way Committee seeks authority to sell a house and oil furnace on ROW Section 124 of Maryville Road, where new four-lane pavement is planned.

Names are to be certified to take an examination for the position of superintendent of highways.

Also scheduled are: A resolution approving a cooperative agreement between Madison County and St. Clair County to undertake Step 1 of Wastewater treatment facilities planning, pursuant to Section 201 of the Water Pollution Control Act amendments of 1972.

A resolution to provide a working cash fund in 1976-77, as provided in House Bill 886.

And a report on bids for purchasing linen items to be used at the Madison County Nursing Home.

REMOVE WATCHES

New law requires economic impact study of state anti-pollution rules

Governor Dan Walker on Friday signed into effect the first state law in the nation requiring comprehensive economic impact studies of state anti-pollution control regulations.

S. 865, viewed as the culmination of a three-year effort by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, requires economic impact studies for all proposed pollution control regulations as well as selected existing regulations for their cost effects on the citizens of Illinois.

"This new legislation will lead toward a better understanding of both the environmental benefits and economic costs of our state's pollution control regulations," Raymond J. Bonner, environmental manager for the statewide organization, said during the weekend.

The Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality will be required to prepare a study of the economic impact of pollution control regulations on Illinois business, farmers, workers and government units. The studies will include an analysis of the cost effects of pollution control regulations on important subjects such as employment, industrial expansion, availability of goods and services, and energy supply.

The conclusions and findings of the economic studies will be reviewed by the Legislature before the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

S. 865's primary purpose is to provide a process for ensuring that economic and social costs of pollution control regulations are weighed against the environmental health and welfare benefits of those regulations.

Woman hurt in crash during police chase

A 27-year-old St. Louis woman is in satisfactory condition today at Firms Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, following a car accident at 7:30 p.m. Friday while she was allegedly attempting to elude several police cars.

Thief and assault charges against the woman, who allegedly was involved in a shoplifting and threatened a local store manager with a weapon, are being applied for by the Granite City Police Department.

Complaints have been signed by the managers of two Granite City stores and several traffic citations also are being prepared by officers, Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer said today.

The woman was driving a car, owned by a Northwoods, Mo., resident, in the 1400 block of Madison Avenue when she was parked vehicle owned by Sam E. Roskoff, 1426 Madison Ave., bounced off the car, traveled across the roadway and struck a power pole.

Her auto then crashed into a building at 1412 Madison Ave., where she was thrown from the car and was found inside the opening.

Police said the woman was being chased by several squad cars after being involved in an alleged shoplifting at a local store, Nameoki Road and Madison Avenue.

The vehicle had jumbled the car at 22nd Street and Madison Avenue, traveled through a service station, proceeded the wrong way on Grand Avenue, returned to Madison Avenue, running a red light, and continued southward on Madison at high speed.

The series of events started when a National Food Store employee allegedly saw the woman, who was seen running her dress, stopped her and asked to see the ham. When she refused to cooperate, the employee followed her to the door.

At this point, police reported, the woman began cursing the manager and turned around, telling him to stay back. She then put her hand into her purse and said, "This .38 will be blowing a hole in you."

The woman left the store and got into an auto on the parking lot.

Police were alerted by a clerk while the confrontation was in progress, saw a car fitting the description of the vehicle at Madison Avenue and attempted to halt the driver, with the chase ensuing.

After removing the wrecked vehicle from the building, police discovered various items in the car, including bottles of whiskey, nine hams, new clothing, five bottles of perfume, bottles of cologne, blouses, skin sachet and shampoo.

The woman was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she was unconscious and suffering from multiple lacerations and bleeding from the right ear. She was transferred to the St. Louis hospital.

Vandal badly damages home and sets a fire

After being a hospital patient, Mrs. Nellie Horn, 3138 Nameoki Road, retired home to find her house had been entered.

Considerable vandalism had been done, including the destruction of newspapers inside the oven.

The intruder stuffed newspapers inside the oven, turning it on to 500 degrees and causing a fire which apparently burned for 15 minutes without major damage.

Sugar was scattered on the floor, including bottles and broken eggs had been thrown about the kitchen.

The woman was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she was unconscious and suffering from multiple lacerations and bleeding from the right ear. She was transferred to the St. Louis hospital.

Encephalitis precautions are outlined

By RON CORNWELL
Agricultural Extension Adviser
in Madison County

Encephalitis is a general term meaning inflammation of the brain tissues. There are a number of types of encephalitis that have been in the news the past few years.

The St. Louis form of encephalitis is transmitted to many by mosquitoes. This is usually the common house mosquito.

The mosquito first bites an infected bird and then bites a person. A non-infected mosquito cannot contract the disease by biting an infected person.

The presence of the virus in birds and the abundance of house mosquitoes in many communities makes for a potentially serious situation.

The house mosquito lays its eggs on the surface of stagnant water and particularly likes water that is high in organic matter.

California encephalitis is transmitted by the tree hole mosquito. Persons living in or near wooded areas are more likely to be infected.

Western equine encephalitis is mainly a disease of horses, but humans have been known to contract it. Birds carry the virus and mosquitoes transmit it to horses and man.

To help lessen the chances of being bitten by a mosquito carrying the encephalitis virus, a person should follow these suggestions for inside the home.

—Keep all screens on doors and windows in good repair.

—Hang plastic resin strips containing 20 per cent dichlorvos (DDVP) in each room of the house except the kitchen. These strips will kill flies and mosquitoes for several weeks.

A 0.1 per cent pyrethrin space spray applied from a pressurized spray can may be used for quick knockdown in place of the dichlorvos resin strips.

Here are some steps you can take outside the home to reduce mosquito populations:

—Eliminate standing water in such places as leave troughs, old tires, tin cans, children's toys, storm sewers and the like.

—When needed, sparingly apply a water base spray containing .05 per cent malathion to shrubbery and tall grass. During problem periods, repeat this every week or two.

Do not use malathion on conifer red cedar.

Mow weed patches near children's play areas.

Mosquitoes harbor there during the day.

—For quick knockdown at cookouts or outdoor parties, use either .01 per cent pyrethrin or .05 to 1 per cent dichlorvos (DDVP) as an oil or water base space spray.

Spray the mist lightly beneath tables and chairs and into the air for a few feet around the area. If mosquitoes are numerous, it may be necessary to spray beforehand as well as once or twice during the event.

—Avoid going outside at dusk. If you must, use a repellent on the exposed part of the body.

One of the most effective mosquito repellents is DEET (diethylmetatoluamide).

For information on mosquito control, Quad-Cities may request a copy of NIEB 132 "Community Mosquito Control" from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service office in Edwardsville.

the policeman to halt the youth.

The officer gave chase, tackling the boy outside Coolidge Junior High School after he refused to stop, and returning him to the South High parking area. The youth apparently had refused to comply with a request to stop smoking inside the school building.

While waiting for backup officers, the policeman was assailed verbally by a group of boys who shouted obscenities.

When approached by the officers, they jumped into a car, yelling a final threat that the officer would be "killed."

The car failed to start and the quintet was arrested.

The four younger boys were released on notices to appear for a hearing.

Veto SIU

be discussed is ailing SIUE President John Rendleman's announced administrative restructuring to reduce costs. Board Chairman Ivan Elliott has indicated he may challenge Rendleman's action; SIUE officials say the revision is no different from the type carried out at SIUC without specific board approval.

Gov. Walker cited the recommendation for a veto of Higher Education.

He said the bill would "raise serious problems" in the SIU board's ability to implement its bond obligations.

Elliott praised the governor for the veto.

Dr. Rendleman said Walker's action "is not the final decision. We don't necessarily need autonomy. The whole problem could be solved by the Board of Trustees if it would be as aware of our problems as it is of those at Carbondale."

"Gov. Walker's veto of Senate Bill 18 comes as a great relief," said Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, said.

"Evidently he gave greater weight to the opinion of the bureaucratic staff of the Board of Higher Education than he did to the express convictions of the citizens of the area served by SIUE."

"There is still strong support for the idea of giving that institution a separate trustee board."

With regard to the bonding problems mentioned in the governor's veto message, it is clear that he was badly advised. Even the figures he used are obsolete, having been taken from June 1974.

"Section 28 of my bill specifically provides for a responsive mechanism by which the present bonds total bonded debt can be retired. It contemplates that the bonding debt will be refinanced at a proper time, and guarantees security for the existing department until that time."

"A number of institutions of higher education are either studying or actually in the process of refinancing bonded debt. Persons of reasonable intelligence can comprehend such a process and execute it without undue complication. The nation as a whole presently exist on the Board of Higher Education is a vast open question," Vadalabene asserted.

"Of course, I personally feel that this question, particularly the right of the governor to use his judgment in this particular situation."

"I don't think the matter will end here. In my judgment, the General Assembly must take a look at the entire problem of governance in higher education."

"I intend in time to pursue this question, particularly in terms of defining the proper road of higher education, if indeed it has one."

"We must find a way to allow institutions to function efficiently, and responsibly without having to deal with all the cases of superfluous bureaucratic structure."

"The bureaucrats won a battle today, but if I have anything to do about it, they are going to lose the war."

Karen Karandjeff weds Daniel Joseph Crawford

Miss Karen-Lynn Karandjeff, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Karandjeff, 2541 Cleveland Blvd., and Daniel Joseph Crawford, a son of Lieutenant Colonel (ret.) and Mrs. C. E. Crawford, 5606 Farmington St., Omaha, Neb., were united in marriage on Aug. 30 at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church.

Officiating at the double-ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon was the Rev. Edward Groesch. A reception for guests followed the service at the Sunset Hills Country Club, Edwardsville.

Nuptial selections were sung by Miss Eric Mills, accompanied by Mrs. Isabel Schmidt, at the organ.

For her wedding, the bride chose a candlestick silk organza over satin gown accented with re-embroidered Alençon lace. The lace bodice was designed with a high-rise waistline, a Victorian neckline and cap sleeves. A slender floor-length skirt swept into a graceful chapel train.

Her veil of illusion cascaded from a cap of matching lace rosettes, and she carried a modified nosegay of white elegance carnations, baby's breath, white Sweetheart roses and variegated pottedporum foliage.

Maid of honor Miss Janet L. Wilson and bridesmaid Miss Bonnie M. Drescher wore identical coral crepe dresses.

Fashioned with fitted bodices the oval necklines and puff sleeves were traced with a narrow Cluny lace. Two wide inserts of lace enhanced the floor-length skirts.

Each held a colonial bouquet of white Sweetheart roses, starburst pom poms, coral elegance carnations and baby's breath.

The groom selected his brother, John K. Crawford, as his best man. Brian Treachouse served as groomsman.

Philip M. and Robert H. Karandjeff, brothers of the bride, and Thomas Pearson, seated the guests.

Members of the wedding party and their families were entertained at a rehearsal dinner given at the Sunset Hill Holiday Inn.

The former Miss Karandjeff graduated in May from William Woods College, Fulton, Mo., and is presently employed as a trust accountant at Mercantile Trust Co., St. Louis.

Mr. Crawford is a graduate of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., where he was a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is now studying for a masters degree in biology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Members of the couple's immediate families attended the ceremony and a reception which followed at the Barr residence. Miss Jeannette Stefanoff, a sister of the bride, presided over the guest book.

The former Miss Stefanoff is a senior student at Granite City High School North. Her husband attends Rankin Technical Institute in St. Louis.

Masquers present "South Pacific"

Masquers Inc. will present Rogers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific" at Granite City South High School auditorium on Friday and Saturday evening.

The stage production is the first official Performing Arts Event sponsored by the Bicentennial Commission of Granite City.

Mrs. Margaret Pennell, director of the show, and Mrs. Beverly Scroggins, who has a leading role, both serve on the eight-member commission.

Since its first Broadway production in 1949, "South Pacific" has been one of the more popular American musicals. The show is set on an island in the South Pacific during World War II and recalls an important era of American history.

Its theme deals with basic values and attitudes and its treatment of prejudice and interracial marriage is as vital in the post-Vietnam era as it was in the years following World War II, Mrs. Pennell said.

Among the cast members are Mary Elizabeth Pennell, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Pennell, who will play the part of Ngana; Mrs. Rogers Davis Mefford, who will portray "Bloody Mary"; and Mrs. Scroggins as "Nellie."

Curtain time for the show on both nights will be at 8:15. Admission tickets cost $3 for adults, $2 for students and $1 for children.

Tickets may be obtained from any Masquer, by calling Mrs. Pennell at 877-5537, or by purchasing them at the door on the night of each performance, according to Timothy Quain, community relations director for the organization.

4th quarter decisive as football Steelers top Warriors 16-7

Granite City High School North won 16-7 with closing seconds heroics here Friday night, but not before GCHS South had put the Steelers "onto the ropes" with strong offensive punches that showed the football Warriors have developed considerable potential for 1975.

The season-opening contest, played before nearly-packed grandstands at the Fehling Road stadium, pleased both sides on a number of occasions.

The game was so supercharged with fourth-quarter fireworks that both the happy Steelers fans and disappointed Warrior backers were stunned by the outcome.

If the north High area had been electing a mayor, Halfback Larry Schleicher might have won with ease Friday night. It was his pass reception and lateral that set up North's initial touchdown with 1:04 left in the game, and he then intercepted a pass and scampered for a 30-yard touchdown run as time ran out.

Halfback Leo Pelek scored on the razzle-dazzle lateral play, scooping up the ball just before it touched the ground. Quarterback Greg Corey had passed from the 43 to Schleicher at the 57, and the latter was being tackled as he pitched the ball to Pelek.

The only three points on the scoreboard throughout the first three periods were tallied on Corey's 41-yard field goal, kicked for North High with 6:29 left in the first quarter.

Warrior heroes included Joe Ward, who sprinted 37 yards for an apparent TD nullified by a clipping penalty, and Quarterback Keith Champion and Split End Jim Jackson, who combined for a 40-yard touchdown pass play with 7:40 left in the game.

Extra points were kicked by North's Corey and South's Bryan Bunjan.

It was the second varsity football meeting between the two Granite City schools, North having won over South a year ago. The two did not meet in North's first year of existence, 1973-74.

The close contest kept the crowd's attention throughout. It was a colorful evening, with both school's bands, cheerleaders, flag units, pep squads and pom pom girls all playing a part in the festive events.

Many fans had gone to the game without jackets because of the heat in the early evening. But the weatherman seemed to know that the football season had arrived, and a cool wind that started before game time chilled the stadium for the rest of the night.

It would be hard for even a fictional game to have generated more dramatic impact as the contest drew to a close.

It seemed unlikely to most that the 3-0 score would stand up as the final tally, but it continued to blaze from the scoreboard through many series as defensive players on both ends of the gridiron succeeded in thwarting enemy drives.

As the fourth period began, it seemed that the Steelers might have to punt the ball, and they were relieved that they had just switched to defend the north end of the field, with a strong wind at their backs.

North drove two yards into Warrior territory but was pushed back to its own 40-yard-line and kicked.

The ball was downed on the South 26 and the Warriors held onto it to drive for their touchdown.

Alan Benko carried for three yards and then two yards, and Champion passed to Jackson on the North 41. After a short run by Benko, the same passing combination clicked for the TD.

North began its next series on its own 18 but had to punt and the Warriors moved quickly from their own 43, with Ward powering around right end to the Steeler 30. But North took over on downs on its 22 and drove goalward.

An incomplete pass enabled South to take possession with 1:56 left on the North 47, but after a run gained no ground, the Warriors lost their third fumble of the night, Steeler Tom Stanford falling onto the pigskin on the South 43.

Only 77 seconds remained but the Corey-Schleicher-Pelek play engineered a touchdown after a first down pass fell incomplete. When the extra point attempt was wide of the mark, the score remained at 9-7.

South returned the kickoff to its 15 and failed to connect on several passes. On fourth down, a pass was picked off by Schleicher, who ran into the end zone for the final Steeler TD.

South had a 9-7 edge in first downs and also outrushed North 147-58, but the Steelers enjoyed a 121-56 advantage on passing yardage.

The Warriors intercepted two passes to North's three. The Steelers lost one fumble.

Steeler jayvee team is shut out

The junior varsity football squad of GCHS North was dealt a 9-0 blow Saturday by host Belleville East.

But the Steelers' Tom Wyrstet said "there were good plays executed by younger linemen who I'm sure will help us later in the season."

South Boosters to meet Tuesday

The first meeting of the Granite City High School Boosters Club will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Room 138, the former cafeteria, it was announced by the president, Bob Austin.

Austin said all parents of students attending South High School are invited to attend the session.

At home, the Pee Wee squad came from behind with three second-half touchdowns to defeat Fairview 20-6, and the Midget Central team was nipped 6-0 by Wood River.

The Junior Pee Wee team scored a 27-0 victory at Alton and the Midget North B squad lost at Belleville.

Terry to be a Cougar harrier

Former GCHS South harrier Dwayne Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Terry, Granite City, has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, according to John Flanner, head cross-country coach.

Terry was chosen an all-regional track and cross-country runner in the 1974-75 school year, and was voted the most valuable runner in cross-country at South High.

He was a state finalist in cross-country his senior year. His 4:21.0 clocked time in the mile was the fourth best ever registered in this region.

"I am extremely pleased that more and more of the top runners from the Southwestern Conference are selecting SIUE as their school," Flanner said. GCHS South was a conference member until July 1.

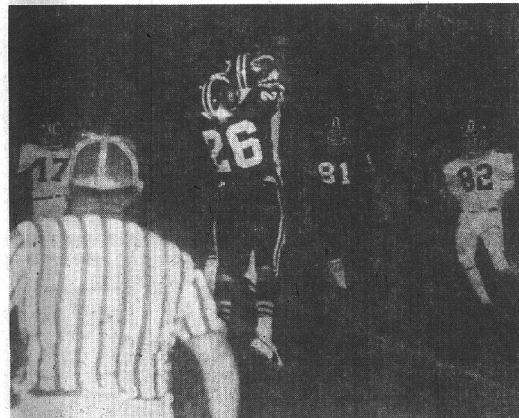

Alton outscores Steeler golfers

Granite City High School North golfers were topped 180-166 by Alton at the nine-hole Rock Springs course in Alton Thursday afternoon.

Dale Schroeder with a 38 led the host team to victory. Top scorers for the golf Steelers were Bob Harper, a senior, 40, his sophomore brother, Dan Harper, 48, Gary Eaker 43 and George Bantz, 49.

Quigley bows to South 1-0, beats soccer Steelers 2-1

Granite City High School South swept to its second straight soccer shutout of the new season here Saturday morning, defeating visiting Quigley South 1-0 on a penalty kick by Centerback Rick Fernandez.

The winning goal was earned with 30 seconds remaining in the third period after South's Ken Praezma was fouled by an opposing player.

Warrior Fernandez scored from 12 yards away. South's Randy Lyerla made a diving stop in the final period.

The shot would have sent the contest into overtime if the ball had entered the net.

Lyerla was credited with six saves in the game and Quigley's goalkeeper with seven. South took 11 shots on goal and the visitors eight.

Granite City High School North's soccer Steelers were handed their first loss of the season Saturday afternoon by visiting Quigley South, 2-1.

Quigley, which placed third last year in the state finals, overcame a 1-0 deficit, scoring twice in the fourth quarter.

The visitors scored when a loose ball at the mouth of the goal was stayed past North goalkeeper Rick Demaree, and again with one minute remaining in the contest when a shot from the corner by John Michalik was slammed into the net by John Kosar.

North's lone point came three minutes into the third period when Perry Hartwick passed the ball to striker Eric Painter, who in turn powered it into the net.

Madison blows 14-0 in opener

The Madison High School football team saw their hopes of maintaining control of the ball shattered by frequent turnovers as they dropped a 14-0 decision at Wentzville (Mo.) High School Friday night.

The contest was the first for Madison in an 11-game independent schedule for the 1975 season.

Coach Al Vonder Haar's Trojan eleven was able to play the host squad to a scoreless standoff in the first half, but Wentzville explosively crossed the goal line in the third period on an 80-yard pass play from Quarterback Jeff Slaughter to Keith Crumes. The first of Dale Wilcoxen's two placement kicks made the score 7-0.

In the fourth quarter, Wilcoxen capped an offensive march with a nine-yard touchdown run.

The MHS turnovers included one pass interception and four fumbles. The Trojans also fumbled two other times, but recaptured the ball on those occasions.

Despite being shut out, Madison matched Wentzville in first downs with eight, chalking up 88 yards on ground gains and 45 yards on two successful passes.

Wentzville rolled up 150 yards rushing and gained 140 yards on six completed aerials but was hampered often by penalties.

Madison was not nearly as hapless as the score might indicate. The Trojan defense sparked on several occasions.

In the first quarter, a Wentzville drive to Madison's three-yard-line ended in a turnover by the hosts when a fourth down scoring attempt was stopped cold by Cedric Wilson, a 5-9, 220-pound senior guard, and Dairfed Haynes, a 5-11, 180-pound senior.

The Trojan defense again held Wentzville in the second quarter at the one-yard marker.

Both Indian touchdowns were set up by Madison fumbles.

In the third period, Madison drove from its own 35 to the hosts' 16 before a handoff miscue resulted in the eventual scoring pass play.

A fourth quarter Madison fumble at its own 30 gave Wentzville possession and a TD two plays later.

Senior Running Back Curtis Bradley netted the most yards for Madison, 54 in 15 carries.

Wentzville was penalized 10 times, losing 100 yards. Madison lost 35 yards on five penalties.

This week, the Trojans will be trying for Victory No. 1 on Saturday, when they host De Andreis of St. Louis at 2 p.m.

In other Friday area grid competition, Alton topped Terre Haute, Ind., South 22-0, Belleville East edged Belleville Alton 7-0, Vandalia vintolized Triad 28-0, Edwardsville belabored Wood River 28-6, Bechtel cruised Freeburg 28-0, Mascoutah dumped Breese Mater Dei 33-0, Dupo defeated Carlo 14-7, Cahokia was blanked by Springfield Southeast 34-0.

O'Fallon was nipped 63 by Mount Vernon, Gillespie beat Highland 19-6, Alton mauled Jerseyville 26-14 and Roxana racked up Southwestern Plaza 33-7.

On Saturday, Belleville West whitewashed Assumption 24-0, Lincoln of East St. Louis upset the cross-town East St. Louis Flyers 7-0 and Collinsville blanked Roosevelt 27-0.

SOUTH HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS cheer, display a Confederate flag and urge their team to "melt the Steelers" Friday evening. The South eleven gained the lead in the fourth quarter and for a time appeared on its way to victory before bowing 16-7.

Women's soccer league is proposed for this fall in Granite City park district

Plans for the first women's soccer league, to be sponsored by the Granite City Park District, are to be discussed during an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues.

Being a new program, it has no experienced managers and anyone interested in managing a women's team is urged to attend Thursday's meeting, it was related.

The league will be for girls who were high school juniors on Jan. 1, 1975, or are older. There is no top age limitation.

All games will be played on weekends.

implementation, roster limitations, eligibility requirements and a proposed schedule of games.

Each prospective team manager will receive a list of key dates and deadlines for starting the program.

The entry fee has been established at $55 per team. Additional information will be available at the meeting or may be obtained by calling Mike Jesse at the Granite City Park District office, 877-3069.

Persons interested in joining a team, and who do not have enough prospective members to form their own, may leave their names on a list of available players at the park office.

Steeler harriers top Warrior team 19-36

Crosstown rivals Granite City High School North and GCHS South met on the 2.5-mile South cross-country course Thursday to test each other's strength early in the season.

North emerged victorious 19-36, capturing the top six positions with the exception of second place, which was achieved by Frank Holmes of South in 15 minutes and 12 seconds.

Mike Baker of North was the fastest runner, covering the terrain in 14:42. Other Steelers in their school's top five were: Robin Tegel, third in 15:36; Dave Ebrecht, fourth in 15:38; Don Lucy, fifth in 15:39; and Dave Futch, sixth in 15:45.

Other South Warriors were: Randy Presswood, seventh in 16:02; Glen Ahlers, eighth in 16:09; Don Meagher, ninth in 16:17 and Mike Cothern, 10th in 16:36.

The North junior varsity also was successful, winning 19-38 against the JV Warriors.

Top finishers for North were Baker, fifth, Futch sixth, Tegel 14th, Lucy 15th and Ebrecht.

For the Warriors in the Alton invitational, Holmes finished seventh, Presswood 15th, Cothern 20th, Ahlers 27th and Lynn Decker, 33rd.

Golf Warriors will open 1975 campaign

The golfing Warriors of GCHS South open their 1975 season against Mascoutah tomorrow at 4 p.m. on the greens here at Arlington Heights Golf Course.

South is headed this season by veteran golf coach Harry Lane who initiated the first golfing program here in 1964.

"When we first started," recalls Lane, our schedule consisted of about 10 dual meets, now we face 16 dual meets and three tournaments." The head mentor says his squad is young and inexperienced this year, with the only returnees being Seniors Jay Fedore and Kevin Worcester, Junior Al Collins and Sophomore Ben Brown.

"But," he speculates, "we are hopeful of being competitive since we have several freshman and sophomores who show promise of contributing much to our effort."

5-0 Warrior soccer victory

Coach Gene Baker's always-granite Granite City High School South soccer Warriors showed Thursday afternoon in their 1975-76 opener that this season will be no exception. Hosting Alton High, South stifled the Redbirds 5-0.

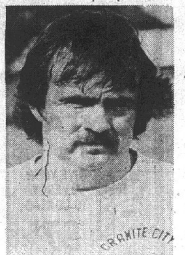

Starting off slowly, the Warriors built up their momentum offensively while maintaining a stout defense spearheaded by Goalie Randy Werla and Defensive Back Gary Phelps.

South got on the scoreboard early in the first of the 45-minute quarters. After three minutes and eight seconds of play, David Goldschmidt scored an assist from Rick Fernandez.

The count remained 1-0 until the 20th mark of the second quarter, when the same scoring combination—a Fernandez pass and a David Goldschmidt goal—rang the bell.

Brother Mark Goldschmidt made it 3-0 unassisted after 13:21 of the second period.

Third-quarter action brought two more goals, one at 2:09 by Rick Becherer, assisted by Joe Theis, and another at 10:00 on a penalty kick by Rick Fernandez.

Services relocated for airport paving

During the repaving and reconstruction of the upper-level (departing flights) drive at Lambert-St. Louis Airport, which began last week and is scheduled for completion by Thanksgiving, all vehicles and services must use the arriving flights drive unless dropping off departing passengers.

The only vehicles which will be allowed to use the upper-level drive during reconstruction are those which will make a short stop in front of the building to drop off passengers and/or luggage at the airline baggage check facilities.

All other services and vehicles which normally use the upper-level drive—such as valet parking, cab stops, pickups and deliveries and passenger pickup—will be temporarily relocated to the arriving flights drive.

However, all bus services will remain on the upper-level drive, but will be moved farther west.

To minimize passenger inconvenience and confusion, there have been extensive changes in signs coming into the airport, to tell motorists to use the arriving flights drive unless dropping off passengers on the upper level.

In addition, the airport police staff assigned to the upper-level drive has been augmented to help direct traffic.

"For the three-month period of the repaving of the upper-level drive, we will make every effort to keep passenger inconveniences to a minimum by providing additional police to help keep the traffic flow normal on the roadway and by erecting signs which warn that services and facilities have been temporarily relocated," Henry Bromschwig, airport manager in charge of operations, said.

The repaving of the drive has been scheduled to be completed in three phases so that only one section of the drive will be closed at a time, beginning with two lanes on the northeast.

When this section is finished, it will be reopened and work will begin on the next phase.

In an effort to avoid peak-hour traffic on the roadway, the work will be scheduled from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., five days a week.

Curbside baggage checking facilities will remain on the roadway during the reconstruction but will be relocated on the drive during the three phases.

As an extra precaution, airline passengers and others who use the upper-level drive at peak travel periods are being urged to allow more time for any delays which may be encountered during the reconstruction period.

Normally, the heaviest traffic on the roadway is from 7 to 9 a.m. and from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., especially on Fridays and holidays.

Resource teachers will aid elementary school pupils

A resource teacher is being added to the staff of all elementary schools in the Granite City District to give assistance to emotionally disturbed, socially maladjusted and children with learning disabilities, according to Vasil Eftimoff, administrative assistant to the superintendent of schools.

Eftimoff spoke to the Thursday morning meeting of the Breakfast Kwanis club at Charles Restaurant.

The resource teacher will work with students outside the normal classroom structure.

Children will be recommended for the extra help by a team consisting of the child's regular teacher, a social worker, the school nurse, a school psychologist, speech teacher, the school principal and the resource teacher.

In 1964 the state of Illinois mandated special education programs in every school system, but the Granite City district has had special education help for children for the past 30 years, he said.

Rites held today for Wm. Atwood, 49

Funeral services were held today at a Granite City funeral home today for William I. Atwood, 49, of 2700 Angela Drive. He died at 11:25 a.m. Thursday at his home following an illness of five years.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Richard (Linda) Harrison of Granite City; his mother, Mrs. Helen Atwood, and a sister Mrs. Raymond (Donna) Graham, both of Granite City; a brother Don Atwood of Alton and one granddaughter.

Burial was in St. John Cemetery, 2901 Nameoki Road.

Charge 2 cyclists

Bobby Bruzaitis, 18, of 4023 Gaslight Walk, was charged Thursday with possession of a stolen motorcycle and Gary Smith, 18, of Rural Route Two, Box 1175, Granite City was charged with possession of a motorcycle which had its serial number removed and using a fictitious license plate.

Police alleged that they saw two motorcycles parked along West Chain of Rocks Road Wednesday and when they investigated, they reported finding the vehicle identification number on one of the motorcycles had been punched out and sanded, so it could not be read.

Officers asked who was driving the motorcycle and alleged Smith said he was the driver. He was arrested at the scene. An investigation showed the license plate had been stolen in Missouri Aug. 27, police said.

The driver of the other motorcycle told officers he had to leave and was dismissed. His license plate number was checked and it was alleged the motorcycle was stolen in Madison County Aug. 2.

Police returned to the Mitchell area and alleged finding the motorcycle under a clump of trees south of Chain of Rocks Road and east of Route 151. Bruzaitis later was arrested and charged as police alleged he was the one who drove away on the stolen motorcycle.

2nd youth charged

John Manuel Torres, 18, of the 1500 block of Market St., Madison, was arrested at 12:10 a.m. Friday on a warrant charging him with burglary.

He allegedly was one of two youths found inside the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, 2044 Washington Ave., at 3 a.m. Aug. 13.

John's brother, Ray Torres, 19, was charged with burglary at that time, but John was referred to juvenile authorities as police believed him to be a juvenile.

When officers discovered he was 18, a warrant for John's arrest was obtained.

New laws provide consumers with credit and price data

Gov. Dan Walker on Thursday signed legislation intended to protect consumers buying goods on lay-away and other credit plans, and to provide more information for consumers on coupons, advertisements, price tags and labels.

Walker signed House Bill 2353, which prohibits merchants from increasing the price of goods sold under a lay-away plan by raising payments or substituting merchandise of a lower quality or a higher price.

The new law requires that all seller furnish to the buyer, on any date that payment is made, a record showing the amount of payment, the date of payment and the balance of remaining payments.

After the payment plan is completed, the merchant cannot deliver substitute merchandise unless approved in writing by the buyer.

If the merchandise is not delivered within 30 days of the original delivery date, the seller must — at the option of the buyer — cancel the contract with a full refund or credit; send a new delivery date with the buyer; or allow the buyer to select equivalent new merchandise.

Purchasers can bring suit against merchants if they believe a violation has occurred.

The governor also signed a bill which requires that the total amount of finance charges paid during a year be computed and furnished to the buyer upon request within 30 days after the end of the year.

A companion measure requires that lenders in the revolving credit arrangement provide the total amount charged to an account during the year, including service and finance charges, late charges and other additional charges upon the buyer's request.

Both laws take effect on Jan. 1, 1977, information for the full year of 1976 must be provided.

Walker also signed legislation regulating the use of coupons for purchase of goods at a reduced price.

It requires that the seller indicate on advertisements or on the coupon the regular price of the item, or the price without the coupon.

Gov. Walker signed these additional "consumer protection" measures:

—Senate Bill 1395 requiring that advertisements for consumer goods state the full price of the item, or state that services incidental to the proper use of the merchandise require an extra fee.

—House Bill 1340 requiring gasoline mileage information be posted on the price sticker of each new passenger automobile. The bill becomes effective on Jan. 1, 1976.

—Senate Bill 406 prohibiting the sale of any household appliances other than new merchandise, unless it bears a tag or label indicating whether it is used, repossessed, rebuilt, reconditioned or used as a demonstrator unit.

—House Bill 1961 placing material intended for use as a tent under regulations of the Illinois Flammable Fabrics and Toys Act.

—Senate Bill 837 adding manufactured (prefabricated) housing to the protections of the Illinois Mobile Home Safety Act and requiring manufactured housing to comply with applicable safety codes after July 1, 1976. The legislation also creates an advisory council on mobile homes and manufactured housing.

—House Bill 663 limiting the liability of co-signers of retail installment contracts to the extent that they receive the goods, services or motor vehicle furnished in the contract. The measure requires the creditor to seek satisfaction from the primary buyer before taking action against the co-signer.

Gov. Walker approved the concept of Senate Bill 45, which requires landlords in Downstate cities to pay interest on tenants' security deposits.

request already applies to Chicago.

The interest must be at least five per cent after Jan. 1. He returned the bill to the General Assembly to remove an amendment allowing the landlord to keep the interest until

Apple picking time near

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Extension Adviser
Apple picking time in Southern Illinois is near. Early September and back-to-school time signal that Jonathan and other apple varieties are approaching maturity. And 1975 may well be remembered as the year of the apple.

A moderate to heavy apple crop is present on most home and commercial trees. Fruit quality is good where weather and especially diseases were controlled. Where pest control wasn't achieved, fruit and leaf dropping are occurring early.

Of the main varieties, Jonathan will be the first to ripen. Then come Red Delicious, Grimes Golden, Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty, and Winesap in approximately that order.

Home gardeners that have these or other varieties can adjust their picking to the condition and maturity of the apple. They should be picked just before they reach optimum eating quality. This is when the flesh color changes from green to yellowish-green as noted by the bottom end of the fruit. Red varieties should have good skin color.

When normal, unblemished fruits start dropping, it's time to check the maturity and picking dates. Wormy and diseased fruits will usually drop first, and will indicate that the time is approaching.

To pick, roll or twist the apple so that the stem separates from the tree and stays on the apple. Handle the fruits carefully to avoid bruising.

If apples are to be stored, select firm unbruised specimens that are free of insect and disease blemishes. Place them in a poly or plastic bag to prevent dehydration and store in a cool, dark area. A refrigerator is best for basement will do.

Most garden soils in this area can be improved in fertility and the tenant leaves and the security deposit is returned.

Instead, the governor suggested that the landlord be required to pay the interest each year. Landlords in Illinois are required to pay interest yearly under existing law.

tith, and adding organic matter is the easiest way to do it. Organic matter is the renaissance of plants, animals and microbes in all stages of decomposition. In the soil, decomposition rates depend upon soil micro-organisms, temperature, moisture and cultivation or aeration. The higher the temperatures and the more frequent the cultivation, the more rapid the decomposition.

So, after a gardening season with many cultivations and the typical Southwestern Illinois weather, much of the organic matter in the soil has been decomposed. This will reflect on the productivity of the soil because organic matter increases the water holding capacity and the air space in the soil. It prevents clay particles from cementing together, but it helps tie sand together. Soil temperatures and nutrient releases are somewhat regulated by organic matter. And, it promotes growth of micro-organisms which help condition the soil.

A green manure crop grown this fall or winter can add some organic matter to the soil. A green manure crop may be a crop of anything, but preferably rye, ryegrass, or oats, that is plowed or spaded into the soil when it is green.

Now is the time to sow one of these crops in your empty garden spaces. Seeding rates, per 1,000 square feet are 3 pounds of rye, 3 pounds of ryegrass, or 1½ pounds of oats. Broadcast the seed and work it into the soil with a cultivator or rototiller.

The crop may be turned into the soil in late October or it can be left until spring. If soil erosion is a problem during the winter leave it stand until spring.

Other sources of organic matter for garden soils are manure, compost, peat moss, straw, rotted hay or any other organic products.

Students find differences but a common bond; attain inner growth

By SHERRI TOLAR

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has a unique environment where young-old, rich-poor, blonde-brunette, tall and small can be seen strolling side by side as they learn to work and socialize together under the common bond of "studentship."

Jill Schlusser, an SIUE sophomore, said, "The condition that most affects me is that there are people of all races and creeds who accept each other. It's made me realize people are people no matter who or what they represent."

"I felt fearful when I first began associating with people of other groups," she said. "I was always watching my own words and actions because I was afraid of offending them. Now, some of my closest friends are those of other races, religions and ideas."

Holly Gruber, who has been a student at SIUE for three years, said, "I enjoy the blend in cultures here. My mother and I went to school together at SIUE for a couple of years. We learned a lot from associating with each other and each other's friends."

"My sister will start SIUE this fall," she added. "I'm looking forward to the interaction between her friends and mine."

Steve Pitts, a food service manager and former SIUE student, said, "I've noticed that I've become more aware of attitudes toward people since I came to SIUE over five years ago. Over the years, others started to accept me as an outgoing, free-spoken person."

"The inward differences among people are the most important," he emphasized.

"People usually withhold their inner feelings and attitudes, which means they don't always act as their real selves. Instead, they play social games."

"Here at SIUE, people accept me because they've taken the time to know me."

Patty Czornyka, SIUE student since 1971, said, "Had I not experienced the SIUE environment, I would not be the person I am today—a person looking for inner growth."

In addition, she said she has attended some of the "free university" classes through which she has gained "a greater knowledge of the occult and the peoples who share that type of life style. I've also taken foreign language classes where I have learned of many different cultures."

"Through it all," she concluded, "I understand that everybody must have his or her own certain way of life. It may be different from mine, but it's just as good."

The university cafeteria is considered an ideal place for watching this scattered assortment of individuals.

Between class and job schedules, people find time to sit around and laugh, argue or just meditate.

But even among all the differences, there is one major unifying factor: the clock on the wall. Whatever the lesson, academic or social, each person must revolve around the race against time.

Because of this sharing of time, Patty Czornyka said, "I am more able to cope with reality and the differences between human beings."

Early deadline on state scholarship applications

Students planning to attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during the 1975-76 academic year who wish to apply for Illinois State Scholarships should do so immediately, according to Carmen Kerr, assistant to the director of the SIUE Student Work and Financial Assistance Office. Deadline for applications for the grants is Oct. 1, 1975.

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) has issued a statement reaffirming the Oct. 1 deadline and saying there is a definite possibility there will be no summer payments for 1976.

"The Commission reaffirms the original Oct. 1, 1975, deadline with the understanding that any extension of this deadline toward the earlier announced deadline of Feb. 15, 1976, will depend on total dollars awarded for applications received postmarked no later than Oct. 1, 1975."

The Commission retains, as a legal option, the decision to make any summer 1976 payments.

"The availability of funds in relationship to applications received by Oct. 1, 1975, indicates there is a definite possibility and probability there will be no summer payments for 1976."

The monetary award program administered by the ISSC provides annual grants up to $1,250 toward tuition and fees at Illinois colleges and universities. The grants are based primarily on financial need and are renewable upon proper application.

To be eligible for the grant, a student must be a U.S. citizen and a resident of Illinois. He or she must be of good moral character, be eligible to enroll as an undergraduate in college as of Sept. 1, and be able to demonstrate financial need as determined by the Commission.

Applications and additional information may be obtained by contacting the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office at SIUE.

76 from state's past to be saluted in '76

Michael J. Howlett, Illinois secretary of state, announced during the weekend that 76 prominent figures in Illinois history will be saluted next year as part of the state's Bicentennial celebration.

A contest, sponsored by Howlett, will seek to determine which men and women in Illinois' past contributed most to the heritage of the state and the nation.

"Illinois has produced many gifted individuals in every field of endeavor," Howlett said.

"Politicians, writers, industrialists, artists—people from all walks of life—have made Illinois a great state and America a great country."

Howlett is asking Chambers of Commerce, historical societies, fraternal orders and civic groups to nominate men and women whose achievements they admire. A committee will then select the 76 winners early next year.

"Our citizens will be choosing a historic team that is both Illinois and all-America," Howlett commented.

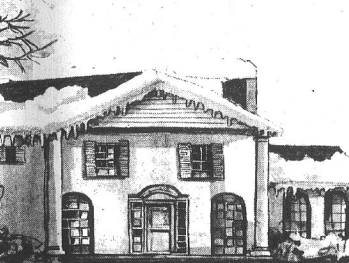

"They will have the opportunity to participate in, not just observe, the Bicentennial celebration."

Contest rules require that nominees are no longer living, but that they were born in Illinois or resided in the state for some part of their lives.

Which house has total home comfort?

An impressive exterior is not necessarily the mark of a comfortable home. A modest bungalow with proper insulation can provide more comfortable year 'round living than a mansion.

So, which of the homes above has total home comfort? Clue: the snow melting on the roof of the big, costly home is a sign of inadequate insulation in the attic.

Without proper insulation, heat escapes through outside walls in winter and cold air sneaks in. In summer, heat builds up in the attic and penetrates outside walls. Winter or summer, the home that's not properly insulated provides a lot of discomfort with too much energy wasted for heating and cooling. You're wise to check on your home's insulation now and bring it up to recommended standards. You'll enjoy the luxury of a total comfort home. And you'll make a very practical saving on energy. An insulation contractor or building supply dealer can give you all the information you need on insulating for total comfort. For a check-up on your home's present insulation, just ask our Energy Use Advisor.

County Board to act on zoning proposals

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals has issued its recommendations on six local zoning requests. Those recommendations are to be acted upon by the Madison County Board when it meets tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. in the County Courthouse at Edwardsville.

The zoning board recommended that the County Board deny a request by Henry Durrett for a special use permit to establish an auto sales repair business and, to construct a garage addition to the existing building at 107 Lenox Ave., in Mitchell. The property is in an R-4 single family residential district of Chouteau Township.

The board recommended approval of a request by Harriett L. Dolosie for a special use permit to establish a package liquor store and confectionery in addition to the present Harri's bait and tackle shop presently operated on Route 162, one-tenth of a mile west of State Aid Route 35.

Approval also is recommended for a request by James W. Reid and Kenneth J. Johnson to rezone 7.2 acres of land at Chain of Rocks Road and the Alton and Southern Railroad tracks from B-2 general business zoning to B-4 for wholesale business. A. Roberts and Dybbahl, Inc., wholesale lumber and building components distribution center is planned at that site.

The board also recommends approval of a petition by Loren Irving for a special use permit to place a 14 by 74 foot mobile home near Route 111 and the Cahokia Diversion Canal to store heavy equipment used at the site of some train wrecks. The unit also would house a watchman-carekeeper.

The property is in a M-3 heavy industrial district of Chouteau Township. The zoning board is recommending that the permit be granted for five years with the provision that natural drainage on the property not be altered.

Two requests for special use permits to place mobile homes in Nameoki Township failed to receive the zoning board's recommendation. The board

THE SCHERMER BULLETIN

Nothing ever goes smoothly nowadays, and the opening of the Top Value Redemption Center has hit a snag. Nothing real serious, only the new opening day is moved back one week to Sept. 14th. Here's what happened. The Top Value people negotiated a lease with Fabricland, however, unknown to Top Value, Fabricland lost their lease. Sooo, Top Value had to start all over with the owners of the property. They have completed and signed a lease now with the owners, and that is why the delay.

Now, for the unpleasant thing, let's review the siding... really, it's just review for you the stamp redemption situation. First, as we have said many times, there just isn't any way in which you can lose a single Rainbow Stamp. Full books of Rainbow Stamps can still be redeemed for cash at our store. THEY CAN ALSO BE REDEEMED AT ANY TOP VALUE REDEMPTION CENTER. Partial books can ONLY be redeemed by Top Value. Here's how you do it. Place whatever stamps would be necessary to complete your Partial Rainbow Book IN ANOTHER BOOK. Both partial books then (some Rainbow and some Top Value) will be considered as full Top Value Book. Remember, please, do not paste two kinds of stamps in one book; keep them separate. AT PARTIAL BOOKS WILL BE REDEEMED BY TOP VALUE, NOT SCHERMERS. If you have any questions, talk to us. You cannot lose at Schermers.

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Claudia Sue Warren, a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Warren, 203 Summit, Hannibal, Mo., formerly of Granite City, and Michael Lynn Haskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Haskins of Hannibal, taking place Aug. 16 at the Calvary Baptist Church in Hannibal.

Vows were exchanged by the couple in the presence of the Rev. Ben Early at 6:30 in the evening.

For her wedding, the bride wore a full-length lace gown fashioned with a V-neckline, long sleeves and a semi-fitted skirt. The dress was created by the bride's father.

Her chapel length veil of illusion, accented with seed pearls, was secured to a lace bridal cap. She carried a teardrop bouquet of white carnations and oriental greenery.

Preceding the arrival of the bride party Mrs. Bill Ellsworth presided at the organ for the Rev. Roy Damron, who sang "Because," "The Wedding Song," "James Warren Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The honor attendant was Debbie Dutton of Granite City. Ramona Warren and Rhonda Haskins, sisters of the bride couple, both of Hannibal, and Cherry Sharp and Robin Skinner, both of Granite City, were bridesmaids.

They selected dotted swiss gowns in pastel shades made with long sleeves trimmed in white lace. Each wore a straw hat in a color to match her attire and held a bouquet of daisies. Earl Haskins attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen and ushers included Michael and Clay Warren, brothers of the bride, Tom Evans, Don Hancock, Skip Watson and Carroll Schitzer.

Eddie Greer of Granite City was the ringbearer and escorted the flower girl, Angela Parrish of Hannibal. She was dressed in a frock similar in style to the bride's gown.

Barbara Thumre registered guests at a reception held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride graduated from Granite City South High School and is attending the Hannibal-LaGrange College, where she is majoring in music and Christian Education.

Her husband is a sophomore in the field of youth ministry at the same college.

TEACHERS WELCOMED. Forty-eight teachers, administrators, and board members of Madison School District 12 attended the new teachers reception held at Granite City Trust and Savings Bank. It was the first reception held for new Madison teachers.

Army Corps engineer named to levee post

The East Side Levee and Sanitary District board of trustees named Thomas J. Farrell as district chief engineer and appointed James Spanos as the district's general superintendent in reorganization moves at a regular board meeting last week.

The action followed adoption by the board of a series of recommendations made by Farrell who has been loaned to the district by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to recommend improvements in the district's finances and operations, but not have the board revised the list of suggestions by Farrell.

Under the board's action, Farrell now will take charge of the district's daily operations at the pumping stations, as well as district maintenance. The post of district chief engineer was held previously by Spanos.

Farrell recommended in early August that the chief engineer, which he termed as "executive director" be in charge of all daily operations, with the chief clerk and legal staff under the chief engineer's administration.

The trustees revised this, however, to provide that the chief clerk and legal staff members be on the same status as the chief engineer, with all of them answering direct to the board of trustees. This would continue the traditional chain of command.

Other recommendations by Farrell that were adopted last week provide that no one shall be allowed to use district cars for personal use, that no one shall receive district gasoline for use in personal cars, that the cost, and that lunch hours for office employees shall be staggered.

The board also decided to try to find a buyer for the district's old garage building in East St. Louis which was damaged extensively in an explosion at the Alton & Southern Railroad yards in 1972.

The district has not been using the building because of the cost involved in repair work and is now renting garage space.

Jack Scoville, president of the levee board, said the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce has asked if it has a potential buyer, and that there may be other interested parties.

Scoville said advertisements announcing intent to sell the building probably will be published soon.

GC ordered to provide improved street access

Granite City will be required to choose between the retraction of weight limitations for vehicles on Circle Drive or the improvement of 27th Street to provide ample access for trucks operated by the Reeves Concrete Products, Inc., and Reeves Red-E-Mix Concrete

Inc., 2801 Circle Drive, according to an order issued in the Third Judicial Circuit Court. The order issued by Judge Thomas Gibbons instructs the city to notify the court not later than Dec. 5 of its intention "to stand upon the subject or ordinance (weight restriction) or not, or to take steps to improve 27th Street."

The ruling was given in a court proceeding filed by the concrete firms after a city ordinance was adopted placing load limits on Circle Drive which the companies customarily used.

The plant's only other form of ingress and egress was over 27th Street, which "is only slightly improved, is not an all-weather street and is not improved for travel by heavy commercial trucks to the width of its right-of-way (30 feet)," according to the complaint.

Judge Gibbons ruled that "the alternative route specified for use by trucks for ingress-egress to plaintiffs' businesses is not a reasonable alternative under the circumstances."

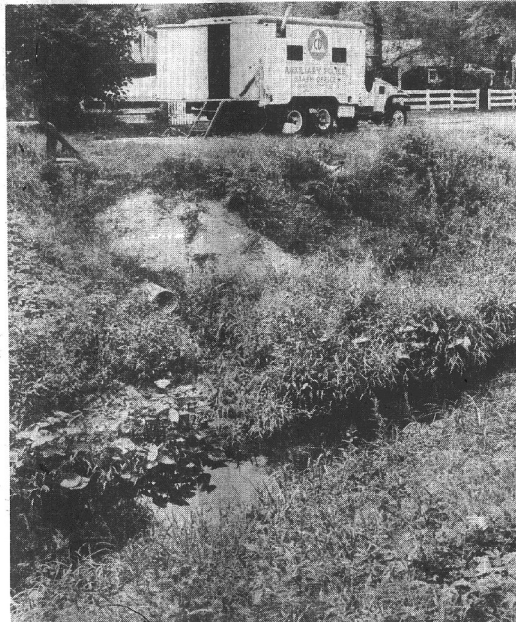

The city may reasonably restrict weight limits for use of Circle Drive, but to enforce the ordinance the city first must improve 27th Street as to width, foundation and load capacity, the order said.

Man awakens, burglar flees

Wilbur Cunningham, 2221a Grand Ave., reported awakening at 3:45 a.m. Saturday to find a man walking from his apartment carrying a stereo and a wooden box containing papers and a pistol.

The intruder saw him, dropped the items and escaped through the front door.

The man was described as five feet, eight inches tall, with long brown hair, between 18 and 20 years old, and wearing a yellow tank top and blue jeans.

SUBJECT OF STATE ORDER. This raw sewage outlet pipe—installed by the street department and retained in place despite objections by citizens and city officials—has prompted the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to order a halt in any new sanitary sewer construction or tap-ins in the City of Granite City. The outlet pipe is in the Nameoki stormwater drainage ditch, a short distance south of Johnson Road.

Seek full school aid

The Granite City Board of Education has passed a resolution urging state legislators to vote in October to override vetoes made by Governor Dan Walker which have reduced state aid payments to all school districts by 5 per cent.

Although many variables are involved in the state aid formula to schools, it is estimated that districts will receive only 95 per cent of their state aid, if the legislators fail to override the vetoes.

An override would restore full funding, it is felt. Walker cut appropriations across the state in many categories, including the 5 per cent cut to state aid, leaving $1,173,000,000 for schools.

In hopes of positive action by the legislators, the Illinois Office of Education is distributing 97.41 per cent of each district's claims. The distribution will be reduced to about 94 per cent later in the year, if extra funds are not provided, to make the average for the year about 95 per cent.

The 97.41 per cent figure represents the maximum the office of education can distribute under the governor's order that only one-twelfth of the total appropriation may be distributed in any month.

Summer school claims, state impact claims and a recommitment of state aid during the year are expected to reduce the amount of money available and thus reduce the funds distributed to each district.

The resolution passed by the district and by many other districts notes that the vetoes threaten to cause property tax hikes and cutbacks of educational programs since sources of revenue to schools has not been growing and the prices of all school obligations are rising rapidly.

Copies of the resolution are to be sent to state legislators, the State Board of Education and the Illinois Association of School Boards.

In other business, the board selected four companies, on the basis of low bid to specifications, to supply lecterns, coat and hat racks, a portable case, shelving, bulletin boards and a steel storage cabinet, all totaling $1,757.

J. S. Latta was granted a contract for items totaling $807, Interstate School Specialty's contract was for $325, Beckley Cardy won a contract for $278 and DuQuaine Lectern was awarded a $239 contract.

Two firms were selected to supply bookstore supplies, including pencils, books and typing paper, costing a total of $1,398.

Interstate School Specialty was awarded a $256 contract and Graham's Business Supply is to supply items costing $1,142. Purchases totaling $446 for printed report cards and student records were ordered from the low bidders with National Peace Officers Press to do work costing $282, and Print Mart Inc., receiving a $154 contract.

Tully Heubner, director of business affairs, was authorized to purchase two fan-shaped glass backboards for basketball to replace on broken at each high school.

He is to purchase the backboards from J&N Distributors for a total of $475, the lowest price he could obtain from among four companies contacted.

Since the boards were needed prior to the basketball season, the board decided not to request sealed bids on the backboards.

Ostertag Optical Service was the lowest of five companies submitting bids on prescription eye-protection glasses for shop work. Prices range from $10 for single focal glasses to $24 to trifocal glasses.

Bills ordered paid included $99,008 for the educational fund, $328 from federal funds, $48,812 from the building fund and $389 from the joint agreement fund.

Stabbing on Nameoki Rd.

Gerald Randy Kessler, 21, of 5222 Marvill Road, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 12:20 a.m. Saturday with a three-inch laceration above the left ear and puncture wounds to the left rib area and left elbow.

Police found him lying in the doorway at Rico's 11 Lounge, 2675 (rear) Nameoki Road, bleeding profusely from wounds to the head, ribs and arm.

Kessler is thought to have been in Rico's, he then left and is believed to have been stabbed by an assailant at the rear of Kroger Co. store in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center. He later made his way back to the night club area.

Arrested near the scene and charged with aggravated battery was Freddie W. Stevens, 24, of St. Louis.

Regulate gas price advertising

By WILLIAM J. SCOTT
Illinois Attorney General
Rising gasoline prices are bad enough. But when we see what appears to be a bargain price per gallon billboarded at the curb entrance to a gas station, only to reach the pump and discover that with all the taxes added, the price per gallon is considerably higher—that's infuriating!

The price with the taxes is legal, of course. But the manner of advertising it isn't—or won't be in Illinois after Oct. 15.

Enough citizens apparently were upset by this gasoline price advertising practice that the Illinois Department of Agriculture, which enforces weight and measure legislation, ruled that all displayed or advertised gasoline prices must equal the price stated on the gasoline pump.

But three oil companies went to court to seek an injunction to keep the IDA from enforcing this ruling. The legal harangue could have taken years.

So the attorney general's office, the IDA and the three oil companies worked out an agreement which was filed in Cook County Circuit Court on Aug. 20.

Under this agreement, which becomes effective Oct. 15, all gasoline retailers in Illinois may advertise gasoline prices only in one of the following two ways:

1. They may display a price per gallon that equals the price per gallon shown on the gasoline pump and is marked "All Taxes Included."
2. Or, they may display a price per gallon which includes only the federal excise tax and Illinois motor fuel tax. However, the words "Plus Sales Tax" and the total amount of that sales tax, and regional transportation authority tax, if any, must be displayed below—clearly and visibly.

(If the sales tax is listed separately, as in choice number two, the letters and numerals on such designation must be solid black on bright yellow background, and must meet a minimum height and width requirement.)

(For example, if the height of the price numerals without sales tax is twelve inches, the minimum height of the added tax must be one-third of that, and the minimum width of each letter three-eighths of an inch. A graduated scale regulates height and width for larger displays.)

It is up to the gasoline dealer to choose from the two options how he or she wishes to display gasoline prices. And it is up to each consumer to read each displayed price sign carefully. There still can be a difference between the large-lettered price per gallon of gasoline displayed at the curb and the small-lettered total price per gallon shown on the pump. But from Oct. 15 on, the gas dealer will have to tell you there is a difference, and exactly how much that difference is—at the curb, in readable black letters on a bright yellow background.

Python's Circus on Channel 9

Five Britons and one American lampoon the idiocies of Great Britain and the world, at large in "Monty Python's Flying Circus," an innovative British comedy series to be telecast at 10:30 p.m. Wednesdays beginning Sept. 10 and repeated at 10 p.m. Sundays, beginning Sept. 14 on KETC Channel 9.

Using parodies, one-liners, sight gags and bizarre animation sequences, the BBC-produced series satirizes nearly everything including government agencies, medicine, and television game shows.

Monty Python's Flying Circus includes five Oxford and Cambridge graduates—Graham Chapman, John Cleese, Eric Idle, Terry Jones and Michael Palin—and an American animator, Terry Gilliam.

Besides the successful television series, Monty Python has also produced two books, five record albums and two feature-length films.

Since the British TV debut in 1969 and the American debut in 1974, "Monty Python's Flying Circus" has received critical acclaim from both sides of the Atlantic. Newsweek commented that the series "appears destined to become the most improbably successful program in the history of American public television" and NBC's Gene Shalit called it "sort of a 'Laugh In' with brains."

Marathon run raises $300

Rick Rose, 2223 Edison Ave., may well be one of the greatest long distance runners in the country, authorities say.

In June this year, in 80 degree weather, he and Mrs. Connie York wanted to do something for the American Cancer Society, so they decided to hold a "Run-A-Thon."

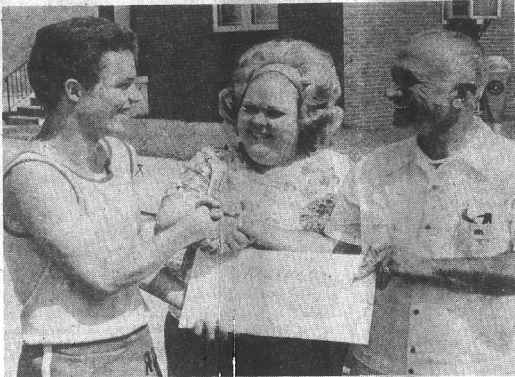

Rick and seven of his friends ran all day up and down Madison Avenue and local businesses and offices were there $500, which they handed over to Mrs. Ruth Wilderman, executive director of the American Cancer Society, Madison County Unit.

Mrs. York lost a son to cancer several years ago. Recently a close friend of Rick died of cancer. She was Mrs. Fay Bailey (Bosworth). At one time she was Rick's babysitter.

Saddened by the untimely death of Mrs. Bailey, Rick wanted to do something in her memory. In two days, he signed up 71 Quad-City area businessmen and office workers to sponsor him in a "One Man Marathon."

Saturday, Aug. 30, in 80 to 90 degree weather, Rose ran 44 1/2 miles in approximately eight hours. This event netted the Cancer Society $300.

Asked why he did this, especially in such hot weather, Rick answered, "I just wanted to do something nice in Fay's memory because she was always so wonderful to me."

MARATHON GIFT to the American Cancer Society, Madison County Unit, by Rick Rose, 2223 Edison Ave., left, who conducted a "one-man marathon" run which raised $300. Rose had 71 friends and businessmen agree to pay him a sum for each mile he could run in eight hours. Aug. 30, he ran more than 44 miles to raise the money. In the center is Mrs. Connie York, who has assisted Rose's projects for the Cancer Society, and at right is Gene Crivello, assistant executive director of the American Cancer Society.

Taste of fall in mid-September

Mid-September: the leaves are just beginning to turn from brilliant greens to autumn russets and reds, and there's an occasional nip in the gentle breezes that waft over the Illinois prairie.

A feel of fall is in the air as summer winds down. And throughout the state are celebrations that annually mark the change of seasons.

At Murphysboro, the Apple Capital of Illinois, the 24th annual Apple Festival takes place Sept. 10 through 13 on the courthouse square. People from all over pour into Southern Illinois to join the fun of the parade, carnival, drum corps competition, and live entertainment; to watch the crowning of the Apple Festival Queen and of course, to eat apples and apple pie and drink apple cider and... well, the good things you can make with apples fill the countryside with the sweet aroma of fresh home cooking.

Morton's specialty is pumpkins and their special event from Sept. 10 through the 13 is the annual Pumpkin Festival (what else?) held right downtown, just off I-74 between Bloomington and Peoria. Highlights are the parade, carnival, and queen coronation, and the flower and garden, art and style shows. Naturally, there's a big pumpkin pie eating contest and samples of the dozens of other prize-winning, spicy delights made from pumpkins. Speaking of big, take a look at the entries in the Giant Pumpkin contest (Linda and Charlie Brown are right... there is a Great Pumpkin) and try to imagine the size you could beake even with the losers!

Longing for the good old days? Go to Siloam Springs State Park near Clayton and Quincy for "Turn of the Century Days." Authentic costumes, music and cultural demonstrations recreate the 1920s. Period music, theater, games, contests and a hot air balloon race turn back the clock to two colorful, carefree days, Sept. 13 and 14.

How about a trip even further back in time, like to the Lincoln era in Illinois? The city of Lincoln on I-55 between Bloomington and Springfield is the obvious spot for the annual Abraham Lincoln National Raisinplitting contest and Crafts Festival, Sept. 13 and 14.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, the kickoff parade goes from downtown to the fairgrounds, and following are the amateur and junior class raisinplitting contests, just like the markets and fairs of the mid-19th century.

The big contest, however, is the raisinpie eating contest. It will be up to the student to design the shopping mall to meet the needs of a well-rounded community. The student must research the project, plan carefully and assume the role of the architect, engineer and contractor in the development of the shopping mall.

A Model Building Competition brochure is now being distributed to 115 schools in the 26 county area. Included in the brochure are the rules and instructions, and a photograph of the previous award-winning models.

The Industry Advancement Foundation offers 20 scholarship awards totaling more than $1,500 to the competition winners. Student awards range from $500 for the first prize gold medal award to $25 for the honorable mentions. Award winning models will be selected primarily on the basis of the professional class, which determines the national raisin-splitting champion. Pioneer crafts are on display, too; for example quilts and wood carvings, weaving and — we couldn't leave it out for a whole weekend — coquetry.

Lincoln itself is an interesting city. It's the only town named after "The Raisinplitter" in his lifetime and with his consent, Honest Abe himself christened it with the juice of a watermelon in 1853.

In the immediate area are

Lincoln College which also honored him in his own time, and the Postville Courthouse in which he practiced law while on the famous Eighth Judicial Circuit.

For information about these and other places and events in Illinois, residents may get in touch with: The Illinois Adventure Center, 160 North LaSalle, Chicago 60606; or the Illinois Office of Tourism, 222 S. College, Springfield 62706, or 2209 W. Main St., Marion 62959.

Southern Builders open annual model contest

The Southern Illinois Builders Association, through its Industry Advancement Foundation, has opened the 10th annual Model Building Competition.

The project this year is to design and construct a shopping mall. This contest is open to all high school sophomores, juniors and seniors from 26 counties in Southern Illinois. The purpose of this competition is to uncover future talent for the construction industry.

A shopping mall has been selected as the year's project because the buying behavior of today's consumers demands: one stop shopping, ample and convenient parking, pleasant surroundings, opportunity to shop at leisure and reasonable variety and good values.

The shift in population from the cities to the suburbs has brought into being what is now known as a shopping center or shopping mall.

It will be up to the student to design the shopping mall to meet the needs of a well-rounded community. The student must research the project, plan carefully and assume the role of the architect, engineer and contractor in the development of the shopping mall.

A Model Building Competition brochure is now being distributed to 115 schools in the 26 county area. Included in the brochure are the rules and instructions, and a photograph of the previous award-winning models.

The Industry Advancement Foundation offers 20 scholarship awards totaling more than $1,500 to the competition winners. Student awards range from $500 for the first prize gold medal award to $25 for the honorable mentions. Award winning models will be selected primarily on the basis of superior craftsmanship and design excellence. Additional awards will be given to those schools whose students have the greatest number of award winners.

Registration may be made with the industrial arts teacher or principal at high schools in the area. Registration opens Sept. 15 and closes Dec. 1.

Models must be designed and constructed entirely by the individual student, must be delivered to St. Clair Square, Springfield Heights, on March 15, 1976, and will remain on display through March 28. The competition is made possible through employer contributions to the Industry Advancement Foundation which is administered by the Southern Illinois Builders Association on behalf of some 900 firms engaged in building, heavy and highway construction. The contributions are based on hours worked by carpenters, cement masons, ironworkers, laborers and operating engineers.

Open fall season

The first regular monthly meeting of the fall season of the Southern Illinois Chapter 152 of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 9, at Charlie's Restaurant. All persons actively engaged in the appraisal of real estate are invited to attend.

Robert Budnick completes course

Modern Woodmen of America District Representative Robert Budnick, Granite City, has returned from the Fraternal Life Insurance Society's Rock Island, Ill., home office where he completed the classroom phase of a two-part training school.

He will begin the ten-week field training phase in the Granite City area under the administration of Illinois South Central Agency Manager Leonard Wolff, Salem.

Budnick was one of 26 agents selected from Modern Woodmen's nationwide agency field force to attend the Aug. 25-29 school. Aptitude tests, his manager's recommendation, and home office evaluation of the production, management and ethical standards of his career all contributed to his acceptance.

During the field section the Granite City man will be applying the basic legal, financial, medical, and actuarial principles learned in the classroom directly to his personal life and disability income cases.

When Budnick has successfully completed the second phase of the training school, he will receive a diploma and become eligible for more advanced education programs.

Raise soybean checkoff rate

A increase in the soybean checkoff rate from a quarter-cent to a half-cent per bushel has been approved by the Illinois Program Operating Board.

The increase is based on the need for more funding of soybean research and overseas market development work, according to Larry Lewis of Ursa, chairman of the board.

"The 14 other states with soybean checkoff programs all collect one-half cent," noted Lewis. "It seems appropriate that Illinois farmers, as the nation's leading soybean producers, should contribute equally to the marketing and research programs that help boost their profits."

Lewis said the collection of a half-cent per bushel will go into effect Oct. 1.

"The overseas market development programs conducted by the American Soybean Association (ASA) are in need of greater funding because inflation and foreign exchange rates have eroded the value of our market development dollars overseas," he said.

"The increased funding from Illinois also will enable ASA to expand market development efforts into the Mideast, where a rapidly growing poultry industry could provide a vast market for soybean meal."

"Given adequate funding, there is much room for future expansion of world markets, since ASA's current market development work covers only 17 per cent of the world's population outside the U.S.,"

New SIUE procedure speeds admissions

New admissions procedures, currently being introduced at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, allow students to become college freshmen while completing their senior year at high school.

Relatively high scorers on the American College Test (ACT) will be admitted to SIUE as soon as their scores are received by the University.

During two SIUE Preview Days offered last week at the University, high school seniors and their parents were given an opportunity to get acquainted with university life. Eugene Magac, assistant director of admissions at SIUE, said, "The reason for offering preview day activities was to allow students and their parents a complete overview of what SIUE is all about."

freedom to function as you please."

Miss Parish, who is interested in becoming a theater major, said, "I found that SIUE has an excellent theater program; the facilities, especially those used for backstage and lighting, are very, very good. The department offers students many advantages he or she needed for achieving his or her expectations."

"I think," she added, "SIUE offers a nice variety for everyone."

Karen Stemmer, Granite City, said, "Lovejoy Library is the most impressive of all that the University offers. I love to read, so I think the library will become one of my special places because it offers something on every subject."

Jeff Stuhlman, Trenton, said, "SIUE looks like a nice friendly place where I think I could really learn to study." He said he was particularly struck by "all the different people and places."

Also impressed by the variety of people at SIUE was Laura Vickers. "My uncle attended SIUE about three years ago," she said. He met a lot of people from foreign countries and said the experience was not only fascinating but educational as well."

Miss Vickers and her parents were most impressed by the fact SIUE offers personal counseling through both Student Development Services and the General Studies Division. They agreed, that counseling is a necessary service in a university environment.

Most who attended the SIUE preview day activities said it had been a very worthwhile experience. In the words of Mr. and Mrs. Vickers, "We didn't know that such a quality university existed so close to home."

Completes Johnson factory schooling

Robert E. Lowell of Granite City has completed the two-week factory service school program at the Johnson Outboards complex in Waukegan, Ill.

He was part of a class, drawn from Johnson's dealerships throughout the world, which explored the finer points of the Sea-Horse line of outboard motors. Included in the curriculum was Johnson's "trouble-shooting" course, with instruction on how to diagnose and repair outboard problems.

New valuation law will help, hurt various taxpayers and agencies; goal is even-handed assessing method

To the extent that assessing uniformity contributes to tax fairness, there is widespread approval of the enactment and signing of a law that pegs the property assessment level at 33 and one-third per cent of "full, fair cash value."

There also is pleasure that a one-third-of-value level has been set by lawmakers, since there had been a significant drift away from the previous target of 50 per cent. Part of this departure was due to the impact of inflation, which has skyrocketed the sales prices of homes and other property during the mid-1970s.

If there had been no new law this year, the Illinois Supreme Court has made clear, the courts intended to begin strictly enforcing adherence to the 50 per cent requirement.

Initial dispatches out of Springfield after the signing last week inaccurately implied that there would be immediate and substantial tax increases in such counties as Madison County, which is said to average 27.34 per cent in its valuations.

Actually, the taxing procedure is much more complex; no multiplier is being applied at this time, and in any event tax rates are determined only after levies are applied against assessment totals; the rates then are multiplied against individual valuations to find the amount of each tax bill. The overall cycle consumes nearly a year.

What is clear is that this and other counties will have to move in a visible fashion over the next three years to achieve compliance with the new regulations. While this will give many taxing bodies — especially home rule agencies — added leeway in their spending decisions, citizens still will have the good judgment of their locally-elected officials as a defense against an oppressive degree of taxation.

The specific application in this county is likely to involve leveling developed urban property at about the present assessment figures and increasing the valuation of farmland and other rural property. A similar pattern also has been projected for other areas of the state, and Illinois officials will need to take care that the uptrend does not become excessive.

For districts such as Venice Township, the net effect may be a plunge in overall assessment, pleasing taxpayers but putting government units into an intensified monetary squeeze.

Real estate taxes remain among the most unpopular and discredited of all forms of taxation. But until a suitable replacement can be found, there will need to be continuing attention in order to make the process work as fairly and efficiently as possible.

"WEREN'T YOU IN MY OLD OUTFIT IN VIETNAM?"

Arrogance toward grain shipments

To the Editor:

Farmers have reacted angrily to the refusal by the longshoremen's union to load American grain on ships going to the Soviet Union.

On July 21 in Miami, delegates to the International Longshoremen's Association convention said the ILA would "refuse to load grain destined for the Soviet Union unless and until the president of the ILA, Thomas Gleason, is satisfied that the interests of the American public are adequately protected."

On July 20, Gleason met in Chicago with Farm Bureau and other agricultural representatives, but indicated he had reached no decision on okaying the loading of Soviet-purchased grain.

Finally, on Aug. 19, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, announced that the longshoremen's union would not load any more grain on ships bound for the Soviet Union until the Administration formulates a policy which would, as Meany put it, "protect the American consumer and the American shipping industry."

Asked if he expected federal officials to come to him with their plans, he replied, "You bet your life—with Dr. Kissinger at the head of the parade."

Such an arrogant statement and action is not wholly unexpected. But for farmers, particularly, whose income can suffer from cutting off foreign markets—it is tough to swallow.

Two days after Meany's boycott announcement, President Ford advised all sides of the dispute to "just cool it a bit," and called for a negotiated settlement.

Throughout this whole scenario, it has become increasingly clear that the American farmer—and the American consumer—will be victimized, not protected, by AFL-CIO President Meany's refusal to load grain. It is apparent to farmers—and we hope it is apparent to Congress and the Administration—that what the labor unions want is not to protect consumers, but to get for themselves a bigger piece of the action—more American ships with more American seamen involved, with greater union control of shipping, probably at higher rates.

Farmers are pleased that the government has decided to take a hand in this whole sorry mess, and they are hopeful that a prompt end will come to the shipping boycott.

This could well be the time for Mr. Ford to follow the counsel of one of his predecessors, President Theodore Roosevelt: "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

Says GC no place for fences, walls

To the Editor:

I have been a steady reader of your paper for more years than I care to remember. Recently, The Forum has been very interesting.

The fence problem has been the subject of several letters. I have never in many years paying years had a neighbor I'd want to fence from view because of an unkempt yard or home. And I have always been proud of my own.

Children have never destroyed one thing we ever owned.

And, last but not least, I'm so proud of my dear old U.S.A. I am thankful to God. I like it here, where we don't have walls to deny people the right to go where they want or to see what someone wants to hide.

I've seen the other side, so I speak truthfully. Let's get down on our knees and thank Him because we don't have to live behind walls, much less build them.

I'm speaking of six-foot, six-inch to eight-foot fences. They are disgraceful.

Railroad subsidies bigger than waterways

By JAMES R. SMITH
President
American Waterways Operators

Mr. Safer of "60 Minutes" on CBS television reported the Alton Locks and Dam 26 situation as the "essence of the way big business and big government work together."

The for-hire barge towing industry is not big business. There are more than 1,800 companies competing head-to-head on the nation's inland system.

Less than a dozen could be collected by any definition, and not one of them is comparable in size to any of the nation's major railroads.

This leads to my second point, comparing a railroad's right-of-way to a commercial waterway. It simply cannot be done.

The waterways are open to anyone.

Water carriers compete, freely and vigorously with one another, with complete freedom of access to anyone who wishes to acquire a towboat and a few barges and try his luck.

Thus, a railroad right-of-way could be compared with the nation's open waterways. If the railroad right-of-way were open to anyone who could finance a diesel locomotive, buy a few coaches and an engine, and operate them on any track for the same traffic to and from the same points.

There is no such competition. In fact, the Railroad Freight Bureau, together with the Interstate Commerce Commission, has complete control over all rail rates in an arrangement which prohibits such competition.

Conversely, more than 90 per cent of the traffic moving over any federal agency, reflecting only the competitive forces of the market place.

Thus, the shipping public and ultimately the consumer is the beneficiary.

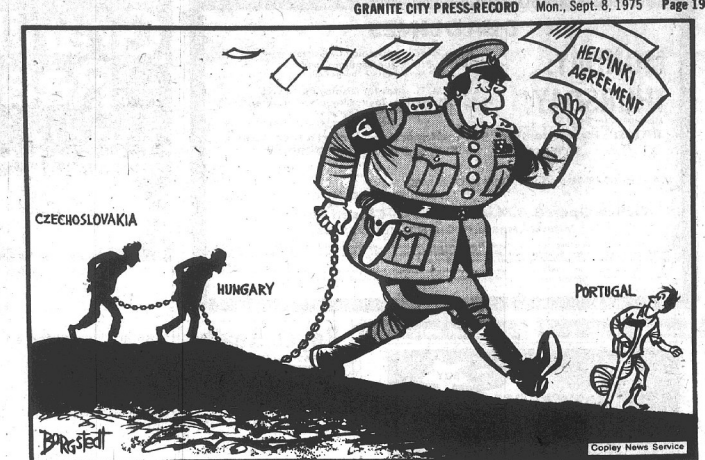

He said that the rails and the waterways are competing head-to-head—one subsidized and the other slowly going broke. This is simply not true.

Mr. Safer alluded to railroad land grants but inadvertently glossed over their true impact.

The Western railroads—the plaintiffs in the L&D 26 lawsuit—were granted 130 million acres of public domain, worth $429 million in 1874 dollars.

The railroads still own about 16 million acres of this grant—all rich in coal, oil, uranium and other minerals. Between 1964 and 1974, the 14 major railroads received $3.4 billion in income from government-owned land.

In fact, 35 per cent of the 1973

"No one should dictate to other people the manner in which they manage their internal affairs...!"

pre-tax income of the 14 major railroads came from the endless profits of federal land grants.

The Burlington Northern even calls itself a resource company, of which railroading is but a component.

The myth that the Western railroads are slowly going broke—and I include the Illinois Central Gulf—is a total fallacy.

Railroads competing with waterways are not the nation's healthiest because of the industrial development which has been built along the nation's waterways.

To say these railroads are being hastened into bankruptcy by waterway competition is completely untrue, although railroads will continue to propagate that lie to destroy their competitors.

The myth that the waterways are subsidized and that the railroads pay their own way is equally fallacious.

No mention was made of widespread federal subsidies that railroads receive, such as Amtrak.

To preserve passenger traffic, assumption by the United States of Railroad Retirement Act obligations, elimination of rail grade-crossing expenses, rapid writ-off of rolling stock construction costs, the Rail Road Act which seeks an additional $2.5 billion in federal money, plus uncounted state and local tax benefits granted to lure the railroads along certain routes.

The truth of the matter is that all forms of transportation in this nation have been, are and doubtless will continue to be subsidized to some degree in the interest of the general public.

Over the years, railroads have been subsidized to the extent of more than $13 billion that we can identify. The waterways received some $4.5 billion.

Although I don't know the figures, I am sure the trucks and the airlines have been similarly treated.

Alan Boyd in his remarks alluded to a $2.5 billion per year federal waterway subsidy. This is totally untrue.

The entire annual budget of the Corps of Engineers for operation, maintenance and construction of shallow draft navigation-related facilities runs about $282 million.

Nat Reed, assistant secretary of the Interior, one of my former colleagues when I, too, was an assistant secretary of the Interior, alluded to the "enormous impact on the nation's budget."

The entire navigation-related budget of the Corps of Engineers is less than 1 per cent of the federal budget!

We were also disturbed by Mr. Safer's discussion of the 12-foot channel in connection with L&D 26.

A 12-foot channel on the Upper Mississippi is not contemplated.

Irrespective of what the Corps of Engineers says in denying a 12-foot channel plan for the Upper Mississippi River, the economic facts are that not one barge company is contemplating or building barges for Upper Mississippi River service which could carry cargo at 12-foot draft.

The depreciation life of barges for tax purposes is from 18 to 25 years; their actual physical life is from 25 to 40 years.

For towboats, the life cycle extends to 40 or more years in some instances.

If the barge and towing industry had the remotest expectation that within the next 40 years there would be a 12-foot channel on the Upper Mississippi River, it would be building equipment to accommodate those added profitable tons of cargo.

The managers of this industry who make the dollar investment decisions are continuing to build equipment—millions upon millions of dollars worth—which can use only a nine-foot channel depth.

We frankly don't care what the Corps of Engineers says about a 12-foot channel on the Upper Mississippi. We know it isn't going to happen.

To say, therefore, that the reconstruction of Locks and Dam 26 is the forerunner of an $8 to $10 billion program to rebuild the 27 locks and dams upstream on the Mississippi is preposterous.

There are a number of other points that really should have been covered.

Boyd said the railroads have "more to offer." Reasonable men know that there is no possible way for the railroads to absorb the traffic increases in prospect for the Mississippi River system.

One railroad man told me they could do it by running unit trains from Minneapolis to New Orleans on a "subway schedule basis," five minutes apart in both directions, 24 hours a day, 365 days out of the year. This is patently absurd.

We can't resist some comment on the Sierra Club representative pointing to the Wisconsin River bank several miles away while he ruminates on the "ecological disaster" inherent in rebuilding Locks and Dam 26.

He must know that before the Corps of Engineers dammed the Upper Mississippi River to create a navigable channel, there were no sloughs, no backwaters and few wildlife habitats.

The river ran bank-full or at flood stage during the spring and became a mere trickle in August.

There was no recreation; there were no pleasure boats; there were few resting areas along the Mississippi for the nation's mid-continent migratory waterfowl flyway.

Yet, these same folks oppose the Locks and Dam 26 reconstruction project, ignoring totally the environmental enhancement which control of the upper Mississippi River has caused.

Let me conclude by suggesting that emotional and self-serving statements not based on fact—and in many cases outright lies—do not serve well the public interest.

We in the barge and towing industry readily admit to a self-interest, but the points made in this letter to CBS are based as nearly as we are able upon a reasonable analysis of an extraordinarily complicated subject.

This nation and its future require all forms of transportation.

Would that the barge and towing industry were so powerful and so big that it could, without heroic efforts, successfully withstand the onslaught of both the railroads and the environmental extremists.

Our industry will undertake whatever heroic efforts it must to preserve this form of transportation for America, because the continued healthy existence of the water transportation industry will redound to the benefit of the American shipping public and thus to the benefit of the American people.

Richard Daley's political organization, Hartigan has concerned himself with issues important to the whole state.

He has been a difficult role, trying to operate an active and effective office in the face of indifference or opposition from the governor's office.

He has taken some cheap shots from the governor's assistants, the most recent of which was the accusation that he involved himself in the Canton tornado situation to the detriment of relief efforts.

The truth was that he provided information and assistance to Canton officials when they had trouble contacting the right people in the governor's office to provide help and the governor was out of the state.

Hartigan has devoted himself to making something useful and effective of the lieutenant governor's job. He has been successful, and he deserves credit and praise from the people of Illinois for his efforts.

Hartigan successful in a difficult role

Illinois State Journal—Seldom has any public official faced a greater challenge in making something of the office to which he was elected than has Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan.

In the first place, the writers of the Constitution of 1870 deleted the two principal tasks previously assigned to the lieutenant governor: presiding over the State Senate and serving as acting governor when the chief executive is out of the state.

Secondly, Hartigan was not the choice of Gov. Dan Walker for the lieutenant governor nomination. He is viewed by the governor and the governor's staff as a rival or potential rival, so he has had to make a part of the administration.

Under the present constitution, it is up to the governor and the legislature to prescribe duties for the lieutenant governor.

Walker has given Hartigan few assignments, and the legislature is not inclined to initiate new assignments for elected state officials.

So, had he chosen to Hartigan could have sat back, performed a few ceremonial duties and drawn his pay.

Fortunately, it is not Hartigan's nature to be a passive public official; therefore, he sought to identify some areas in which leadership in providing service to the public was needed.

His predecessor, Paul Simon, had established an ombudsman role for the lieutenant governor's office.

Hartigan chose to continue this service and expand it. Gov. Walker tried to take over the ombudsman role by creating the Governor's Action Office and setting up regional offices for this agency around the state.

However, the General Assembly viewed the Action office as a potential rival of the governor and refused to provide funds for it the last couple of years.

So the lieutenant governor's office continues to be the most effective agency to help people who have problems with government.

Hartigan saw another area of great need: the plight of the elderly. He emerged as a leading advocate for Illinois' senior citizens and handicapped.

He established a statewide toll-free hotline for senior questions and complaints; led a campaign to win sales tax relief, and proposed legislation to bolster the small, fixed incomes of most of the state's senior citizens.

He became so closely identified with efforts to aid the elderly that in some minds he probably is viewed as a one-issue officeholder. But that is just one of several areas in which he has provided leadership.

He has led the continuing effort to have a new St. Louis area airport constructed in Illinois.

His suggestions for upgrading the facilities at the State Fairgrounds last year led to much improvement of the grounds.

His support was helpful in securing passage this year of legislation to establish an independent board to supervise the fair.

He has led a fight to get strip-mined areas reclaimed, to restore the land to productive use and eliminate pollution, erosion and health hazards from mined-out land.

He pushed for establishment of a council on coal development and worked with Congressmen Paul Simon and Sidney Yates to get a $1.5 million appropriation to set up a federal Bureau of Mines coal research station at Southern Illinois University.

Although he hails from Chicago and has been regarded as a faithful member of Mayor
